DRI ASEAN & GCC Thrive Newsletter

Who Can Contribute

You may submit an article if you are:

- A BCM, risk, resilience, or crisis management practitioner
- A consultant, auditor, academic, or industry specialist
- A member of the professional community with relevant experience

Submissions are made in an individual capacity and should reflect your own professional insights.

What We're Looking For

We welcome content such as:

- Practical insights and lessons learned
- Case studies (appropriately anonymised)
- Thought leadership and professional commentary
- Emerging risks, trends, and good practices
- Reflections on standards, frameworks, or methodologies

Article Guidelines

- Length: 800–1,500 words
- Style: Professional, practical, and objective. Avoid overly academic or promotional tone. Clear language, non-political, and non-controversial.

Please ensure:

- Claims are accurate and supportable.
- Sources are cited where appropriate. Reference credible sources when quoting data, standards, or external research for factual claims.
- Confidential or sensitive information is excluded.

What We Cannot Publish

We do not accept submissions that:

- Contain confidential, proprietary, or classified information
- Include marketing or promotional content
- Infringe copyright or intellectual property rights
- Make defamatory, misleading, or unsubstantiated claims
- Promote political, religious, or discriminatory views

Submission Process (At a Glance)

1. Complete the Contributor Submission Form
2. Editorial screening for relevance and completeness
3. Editorial review and possible revision request
4. Final approval and publication

Publication timelines vary depending on review complexity.

Editorial Review & Revisions

Publisher may:

- Suggest edits for clarity and structure
- Request factual clarification
- Add disclaimers or editorial notes where necessary

Final editorial decisions rest with the Publisher.

Need Help? For enquiries and submission, please contact: TzeYan.Law@dri-malaysia.org